

A Bryant Pond Boy on Parade in New Jersey

This is my first attempt as a reporter. I am trying to make this as plain as possible and still have it sound as I saw it.

It is sometimes thought that some occasions are not held as near our hearts as they might. Memorial Day is one I wish to show that it is held very close, there, as much as it is in less congested localities.

I will do my best to assure you, who read this slight account, that everyone, everywhere, holds Memorial Day as a very important day and a day when all, rich and poor, may pay respect to those who have stood their last roll call and have answered the call of the Great Commander-in-Chief.

As it will be learned, I am a Woodstock boy, have lived a good many years at Bryant Pond. I could not be at home on Memorial Day, so wished to let my buddies know that I thought of them to that end, I am writing an account of the parade in which I took part here.

One of my fellow workmen asked me if I was over seas during the war. I said, "yes." Then he asked me to join the veterans of foreign wars, which I did later. Let me say right here, it is a wonderful organization to belong to, especially my post, No. 1302. Here is the account I wish to make of the party my post took in the parade, also how they wish to be of service to those who will accept.

We have about one hundred members. Several meetings before Memorial Day, the Commander asked that we turn out a good number of men for Memorial Day. We wished to make the children happy after the march, so the night before, (Thursday) we assembled at our quarters and prepared a lunch for the parade. We made 450 sandwiches, had 20 or more pounds of pickles, two kinds of sandwiches, about 30 cases of soda on ice. These things all cost money, but we felt it was pay enough if those who ate with us enjoyed themselves. It was free to anyone who cared to come in and get their lunch.

Friday, at nine o'clock we assembled at the Soldiers' Home on Belgrade Drive. After a short delay the column started to move. With the colors at our head, flanked on one side by our post flag, on the other by the Hudson County Council Banner, V. F. W. Next in line was the police department of Kearney, N. J., after them came the Hudson County Council V. F. W., led by Commander Hill. He also led our post, as our Post Commander, Frank McGivers, marched with the members of the police department, who are members of our post. It is needless to say he is a good commander, also a good cop.

I was not at the head of the line, why I will explain later, so am not sure who was next, but I believe it was the G. A. R., they were in cars as the hike was too long for those gentlemen of another war to walk. There were fifteen or twenty cars for those members of the Grand Army. I neglected to say that a large band was leading the police.

Following the cars a band led between 200 and 300 Girl Scouts, next came the band and then several hundred Boy Scouts and a very large number of school children. There were about three thousand in line. I was honored by being appointed as an aide to the grand marshal. He placed me in command of the second and a very large number of school children. The line of march was through the city's business streets.

It was very evident that everyone was deeply in thought that day, of the days that had passed, as they lined the sidewalk for several miles, as the soldiers of all wars from the war of 1861-65 to that of 1914-18 passed in view, so to speak.

As we stood at attention to listen to the prayer before dismissal, I wondered if all of us would be together next year on Memorial Day. As I said the attendance of our post was very good. We had about 65 in line. Those not in uniform, wearing the V. F. W. arm band. Commander McGivers was pleased the way his men helped him put the post on the map.

In closing this article I would like to suggest and urge every man who was over seas with the A. E. F. to join the V. F. W., no matter if he has to go fifty miles to do so. I feel proud to wear the cross of Malta, which is our emblem. Hoping this does not condemn me as a hum reporter, as I am not a writer, just a plain American, one of the A. E. F. Yours in comradeship, George F. Hudson, Officer of the Day, Wilson-Greggman Post, 1302, V. F. W., Kearney, N. J.

BROWN'S N. E. MOTHERS
Know Its Value
As a Family
Medicine

YOUR MONEY REFUNDED.
If it fails to benefit you when used strictly as directed on the inside wrapper. Try a bottle. Sold by all dealers.

The little brother to the big electric range

You wouldn't believe it to look at it, but this little fellow will do a man's size job when it comes to cooking... and it's just the thing that you have been looking for to use at the cottage or on the porch. It bakes, broils, toasts, fries and boils. It is not only new, but a cooler, quicker, easier way to cook—anything, everything from coffee, toast, bacon and eggs for hurry-up breakfasts—to sandwiches and tea for guests or afterbridge parties... yes! even steaks, chops, chickens, biscuits and vegetables. Plugs into any convenience outlet and ready in a jiffy to use anywhere.

Mr. Roadside Merchant—this is just the stove for you. Get these extra profits into your till that result from the sale of deliciously cooked food on the BAK-O-GRILL. Complete and ready to use $23.50.

See them on display at any of our stores

Central Maine Power Company

at any of our stores

BRYANT POND

Mrs. Carroll Visiting Sister—Coles Enjoys Vacation—Bowler Gone to the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Dolly Carroll, who has been teaching in Franklin, Mass., arrived here, Friday night and will spend her vacation with her sister, Mrs. Andrew Cummings. Mrs. Myra Cole, who has been visiting here for the past three weeks, left Monday for Biddeford Pool for a week, then she will go to Grafton, Mass., where she has work.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Cole have been taking a few days vacation and attended the Postmasters Convention at Portland, and returned home Sunday night. C. E. Kimball and Mrs. Leslie Abbott attended the post office while they were away.

Mrs. Floyd Redman is in Bangor with her mother, who is sick.

Wm. Patterson of Vermont has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. I. Swan; they also entertained Mr. and Mrs. Morrill of Kennebunkport over the week end.

Miss Hester Ordway of South Paris was the week end guest of Mrs. Harry Howe.

Mrs. Florence Cushman has been the guest the past week of her son and wife, Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Cushman of Auburn.

Party Took Trip to Worcester—Callers at Trevores' and Mrs. Stevens'.

Mrs. Prescott is working for Mrs. P. J. Verill.

Miss Alma, Hilma Mikkonen, Siira Jacobson, Enni Limatti went to Worcester, Mass., Saturday, returning Sunday.

Nellie Waterhouse is helping Mrs. Lewis Ester.

Recent callers at E. Trevores' were Chas. Trevores and friend of South Portland. Mrs. F. W. Trevores of Augusta, Maine, and Mrs. Trevores of Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gammon and children of Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Briggs and son were in Lewiston, Wednesday.

E. B. Davis has been on a fishing trip. Mrs. Mary and Miss Minnie Stevens spent several days in Portland last week.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Curtis and daughter of Maidstone, Vt., also Mrs. Grace Briggs and son of West Paris called at Mrs. Mary Stevens' Sunday.

Chas. Stevens, Jr., formerly of North Paris is ill. He and Mrs. Stevens are with her mother in Brownfield.

LOCKE MILLS

Bennetts Moving—Mill Crew Gone to Summer—Boy Scouts in Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett are moving to the George Salls place, which he has bought.

Reginald Ford has employment for the E. L. Tabbetts Spool Co.

Irrin Mason spent one day, recently, with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mason.

The saw mill crew have finished work here, and come to Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Swan and family motored to Greenwood, Sunday.

Maude Salls is home for a short time. The Boy Scouts went on a camping trip to Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mason and family visited his father, George Mason, who is poorly, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rind have returned from their vacation.

Mrs. Marcella Swan visited her sister at Gorham Hill, last week.

NORTH BRIDGTON

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grover and four children of North Lovell visited his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rado Allen, recently.

Milton Denning of Otisfield has been visiting at Rado Allen's.

Mr. and Mrs. Rado Allen and children visited their cousin, Mrs. Herbert Daddman, Sunday.

Mrs. A. S. Holden and daughters, Mildred, Velma and Bertha, are working at Camp Wildwood.

Rado Allen has a nice flock of chickens; he has sold a lot of nice broilers. Mr. Allen is also doing a lot of farming, he has peas all blossomed.

Mrs. Lillian Allen and Mrs. Bertha Allen attended the grammar school graduation, Friday night. Edward and C. Francis Allen took part in the exercises.

Mrs. Ella Howard is caring for Elwin Baker while his mother is working at Camp Wildwood.

OXFORD—FORE STREET

Margaret Cummings has been spending the past week in Portland with friends.

Mrs. M. E. Twitchell, Marjorie and Mrs. Gertrude Mattor enjoyed an outing at the Chas. Bumpus cottage at Dry Mills Sunday.

Fore street school has closed for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Christina Brown is clerking at the Merchant store.

NORTH NORWAY

A. D. Kilgore, who has been in a Portland hospital for two weeks, returned home, Sunday, much improved in health.

Flora Cummings, who is visiting her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Jenkins for a few weeks, visited Mrs. Flora Bartlett and daughter, Grace, of Northwest Norway, Friday afternoon.

Howard Heath and brother, Addison Heath, went to Speak Pond, pickerel fishing one day last week.

Charles Foster narrowly escaped serious injury one day last week, when a floor gave way letting him through, cutting his face quite badly. Several stitches were needed to close the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Jenkins went to Bell Hill, Otisfield, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jenkins' aunt, Mrs. Sylvia Andrews, Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Foster Jackson of Allen Hill, Oxford, were guests of Mrs. Jackson's sister, Mrs. C. D. Morse and family, June 10th.

Among those who attended graduation exercises at the Norway Opera House, Thursday evening, June 12th, were Mrs. C. D. Morse and daughter, Grace, also Mrs. H. G. Heath.

Mrs. Ada Cox, who has been seriously ill, is somewhat improved in health and able to be about the house.

The Swift Corner school taught by Miss Winona Young, Crockett Bridge, closed Friday with a picnic at Pappoose Pond. E. G. Farnum kindly took over a load in his new Ford truck and several cars were filled with children and parents. A fine time is reported.

SWEDEN

Sunday visitors, June 8, at Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Ridlon's were Mr. and Mrs. Bion W. Pray and Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Burnell of South Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Weeman and son, Linwood of Hiram, and her mother and brother, Mrs. Cora B. and Almon H. Rowe. Mrs. Pray and Mrs. Weeman are guests of Mrs. Burnell.

Mrs. Burnell motored to Harrison, Saturday afternoon and visited their sister, Mrs. Cora B. Rowe.

Frank C. Ridlon has been doing some carpenter work for Mrs. Isabel Ridlon. Queenie R. Ridlon took Mrs. Eva Ridlon to Bridgton, Monday.

Isabel Ridlon received a June box one night, recently.

Eleanor Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Russell has been sick with a severe cold. She is somewhat better, but not able to attend school, yet.

Mary Kneeland spent the evening and night with Queenie Ridlon, recently.

NORTHEAST LOVELL

School Closed—Guests at Kendall's—Taylor Improving.

The Slab City School closed Friday, the 13th, after a very successful term taught by Miss Muriel Barnes of East Freetown, Mass. Miss Barnes took her school and invited parents and neighbors to a picnic at Cushman Lake. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Miss Barnes will return in the fall.

Leon Harmon has been sick.

Mrs. Eugene Kendrick and son, Norman and Mildred Hill, of East Freetown, Mass., were overnight guests at Bert Kendall's, Saturday night. They came for her daughter, Muriel Barnes, who returned home with them, Sunday.

Harlan Rowe received 100 per cent in spelling every day for the last term of school. Those who received 100 per cent in spelling for the week ending June 13: George Kendall, Harlan Rowe, George Fox. Since the beginning of the school in September, Robert Fox has not been absent any session.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McAllister and Philip Taylor went to Portland, Sunday, to see Roland Taylor and found him much improved.

WELCHVILLE

The grammar and primary schools closed Friday, June 13. Exercises were held at the schoolhouse. A pleasing surprise was the school phoebey by Eleanor Hall. Miss Hall, Philip Daniels and George Herrick plan to enter high school this fall.

Miss Margaret Avery of Cambridge, Mass., who is spending the summer with her grandmother in East Oxford, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Guy Hannaford of Welchville.

READ THE INTELLIGENCE COLUMN ON PAGE FOUR OF THIS PAPER

GRAND TRUNK CANADIAN NATIONAL

The Largest Railway System in America

Week End Excursions to Portland and Return

Going every Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Returning daily on or before Monday following date of sale. One-way fare plus for round trip.

For further information, apply to G. A. Doran, Agent, phone 30, Paris 1/23 or Norway 235-2, or to G. A. Harrison, G. A. F. D., Phone Forest 7040, Grand Trunk Station, Portland, Me.

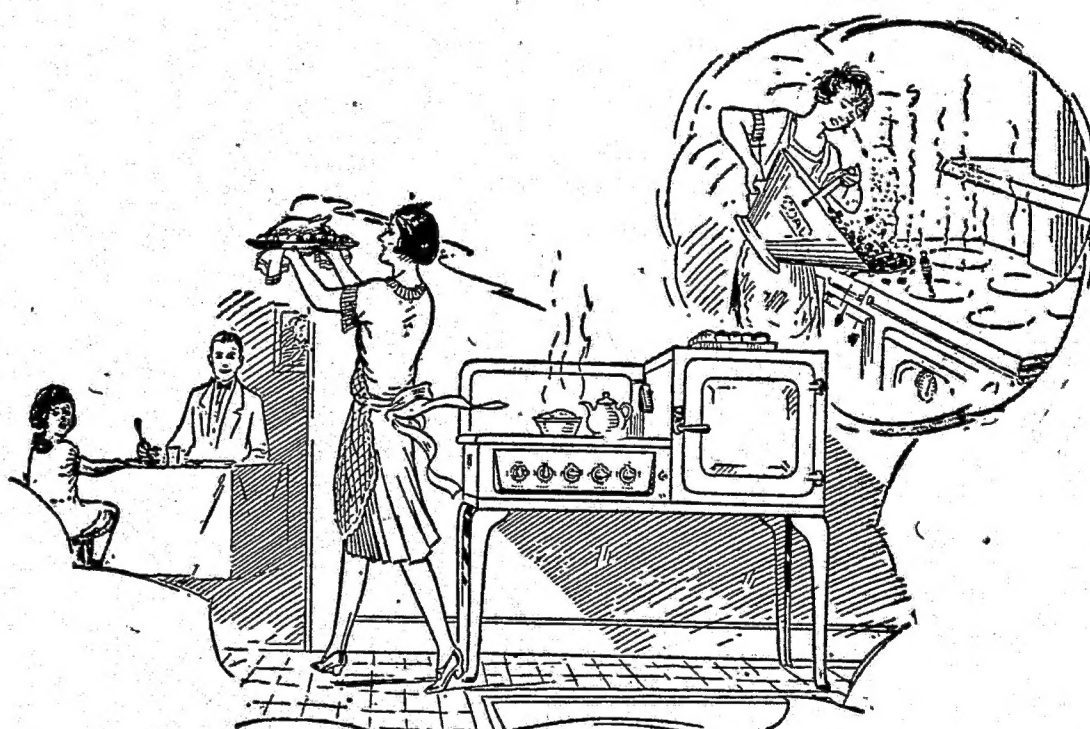

For year 'round comfort

But more especially—a summer necessity!

WHY stand over a roaring fire in a sticky kitchen on hot days like these when an electric range will do your cooking so comfortably!

Electric ranges do not throw off heat for the oven is insulated and keeps it within. You can even set a vase of flowers on top of your stove and they will not wilt... that's why cooking electrically is so comfortable. There are many other desirable features, too, such as temperature control (merely setting an indicator and your baking heat is maintained automatically) and then cooking results are always certain, no guess-work which is a decided advantage.

We have a glistening all-white model that will just harmonize with your kitchen, selling for $139.50 competently installed. Don't let hot weather bother you any longer, come in and look them over.

—and speaking of hot weather . . .
how do you heat water these days?

An automatic electric hot water heater does a wonderful job and you never have to give it a thought. It too, is insulated with a 3-inch cork insulation of granulated cork preserving the heat which makes for economy and comfort.

It gives you a life-time service without a second's consideration. Simply turn the faucet when you want hot water and it's there, 50 gallons of it at a steaming temperature of 150 degrees.

See them on display at our local store or phone and a representative will call.

Central Maine Power Co.

at any of our stores

The Rise of Tom Hadley

By C. F. Whitman
Chapter VI

Tom Finds Some Good Friends

A walk of about a quarter of a mile brought Tom into the vicinity of a fine set of buildings on a magnificent estate. In front of the house were several large shade trees. A sandal driveway led through them from the road, past the stable, walk, to the main house, to the stable, and the buildings. Under some of the trees were seats, where loungers might rest in their cooling shade. There was no doubt in Tom's mind that this was the home of the magnate of the village, Mr. Jarvis Benton. Depositing his pack on the ground near one of the seats, he went to the front door and rang the bell. A female servant appeared and inquired what was wanted.

SERVANT GIRL

"Does Mr. Jarvis Benton live here?" Tom asked. "If so I would like to see him."

"Yes, he does. He has just come in from the back, and he is not important, he won't care to be disturbed," she replied, after scrutinizing him very carefully.

"It is important—not to me—but to him," said Tom.

"I can't imagine how that can be," she said. "I'm quite sure he doesn't know you."

"You must be a stranger in these parts," she said. "It is true that I am a stranger, but I shouldn't have inquired if Mr. Benton lived here. The matter is important to him, however."

"At this juncture a very charming and pretty young miss, not quite Tom's age, came to the door. She had a pair of dark, expressive eyes, red cheeks, a small nose and a sweet smile. Tom lifted his eyes and looked at her as she appeared, at which a crimson she overspread her pretty face. She was just in time to hear the last remark of the servant girl and Tom's reply. The young lady asked:

"What is all this talk about, Auntie? The young gentleman says that it is important for him to see father. Is that didn't you like him?" To Tom.

"Won't you come in, sir?"

"Thanks, miss, I have liked it for a few miles and am heartily and distantly presentable. I'll prefer to see Mr. Benton in the cool shade of these splendid great trees."

Young lady: "I don't see, sir, but you look presentable enough, however. I'll call father."

Mr. Benton soon came to the door, and sizing up the young man before him with a critical eye, inquired: "Well, young man, what is it you want with me?"

"If you will come out, sir, under the trees, where we won't be disturbed and I can cool off, I will tell you."

"Wondering what the strange young man had to communicate, but was important to him, he followed Tom to a seat near, saying:

"Well, young man, fire away. Tom thereupon told him the plot to break into his clothing store, which he had overheard from the three tramps. To Mr. Benton's inquiries, Tom gave his name, age, education and family and added that he was out on a hike to find for himself a situation, and was confident he could make good if he was given the opportunity. Mr. Benton was much impressed with the many appearances of the young man. He thought it strange, however, that the burglars should want to break into a clothing store, rather than a bank, which he wouldn't have been surprised at. From their statements, were not safe breaking burglars, but footpads, who wished to get well clothed before going on their winter tramp South, and closed the conversation with: "And now, sir, you have the whole story and know what to do to protect your property and capture the tramps, and as I am getting late, if you will excuse me, I will go to the hotel, as I suppose you have one in the place."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

The Rise of Tom Hadley

By C. F. Whitman
Chapter VI

Tom Finds Some Good Friends

A work of about a quarter of a mile from Tom into the vicinity of a fine estate, one of the houses was several large trees. A sanded driveway led from the main house, past the stable and outbuildings. Under some of the trees were seats, where loungers were seated in their cooling shade. There was no doubt in Tom's mind that this was the home of the magnate of the village. Mr. Jarvis Benton. Depositing his hat on the ground near one of the seats, he went to the front door and rang the bell. A female servant appeared and inquired what was wanted.

SERVANT GIRL

"Does Mr. Jarvis Benton live here?" asked Tom. "If so I would like to see him," he added. "He has just come in from the back, and if it's not important, I will be back in a few minutes," she replied, looking at him very searchingly.

"That's important—not to me—but to you," said Tom. "I don't know you, but I am sure you don't know me, for I am a stranger in these parts. I have inquired if Mr. Benton lives here. The matter is important to me."

"This is a very charming and interesting young man, not quite Tom's age, but very nice. She had a pair of large, expressive eyes, red cheeks, a faint smile and a sweet voice. She looked at his cap and bowed gracefully to him, at which a crimson tint spread over his face. She was just in time to hear the last remark of the young man and Tom's reply. The young man asked:

"What is all this talk about, Annie?" the young gentleman asked. "Why didn't you ask him in?" To Tom, "You came in, sir."

"Thank you, sir. I liked it for a few miles and I am a little dusty. I am presentable—so I'd prefer to see Mr. Benton in the cool shade of these splendid great trees."

"Young lady: 'I don't see, sir, but you look presentable enough, however, I'll call father.'"

Mr. Benton came to the door, and, looking up the young man before him with a critical eye, inquired: "Well, young man, what is it you want with me?"

"If you will come out, sir, under the trees, where we won't be disturbed and I can cool off, I will tell you."

"Wondering what the strange young man had to communicate that was so important to him, he followed Tom to a seat near, saying:

"Well, young man, fire away." Tom thereupon told him of the plot to break into his clothing store, which he had overheard from the three tramps. To Mr. Benton's inquiries, Tom gave his name, age, education and family, and said that he was out on a hike to find for himself a situation, and was confident he could make good if he was given the opportunity. Mr. Benton was much impressed with the manly appearance of the young man. He thought it strange, however, that the burglars should want to break into a clothing store, rather than a bank, which he wouldn't have been surprised at, but Tom assured him that the tramps, from their statements, were not safe breaking burglars, but footpads, who wished to get well clothed before going on their winter tramp South, and closed the conversation with: "And now, sir, you have the whole story and know what to do to protect your property and capture the tramps, and as it is getting late, if you will excuse me, I will go to the hotel, as I suppose you have one in the place."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Wait a minute, young man. It all seems so strange, but what you say impresses me quite strongly, that you are honest, have considerable ability and can be trusted, and I'll take the risk of being laughed at, if it should turn out that no attempt will be made to break into my store. Yes, we have a public house, here—one of the best in all this region, the Norwegian Hotel, run by Mr. John Woodman, the prince of landlords, and his capable wife, but you won't go there now as I shall require your assistance."

"Certainly, Mrs. Benton, you are very kind, and remind me of my good mother."

The meeting between Tom and Charley was very cordial, and they liked each other at once.

"Come with me to your room," said Charley, "and I'll show you up to your room." Upon ushering Tom into a well-furnished sleeping room, he added: "There you are, a little and a little and I'll go into my room and clean up a bit, and wait till you are ready to go down to supper."

"Many thanks," replied Tom, "I seem to have fallen into the hands of some very good people."

"Oh, we know how to use everyone right, I guess, especially those we like."

Tom changed his clothes for his best suit, put on his light shoes, a clean collar and a new "four in hand". Then he went out into the upper hall, where he was joined by Charley, and together they went down stairs into the dining room.

Here Tom was formally introduced to Miss Benton, who showed no embarrassment at the collection of their previous meeting. He was seated near Mr. Benton at his right, and Charley next to him; Miss Benton opposite and Mrs. Benton at the foot of the table. The servant girl, Annie White, served the viands. Tom's cultivated manners showed his being used to polite society. He was reserved and unassuming. The family were impressed with his manly bearing, good taste and well balanced judgment.

Charley, who was somewhat interested in sports, asked him if he had ever played baseball. Tom replied that he had while a student at the institute, where he was educated and had pitched for his nine. Charley remembered reading an account of a game there, where the pitcher of the institute nine, had acquired a big reputation from his skill in twirling the ball and a home run by a great strike, which won a close contested game and asked if Tom was that player. He answered that he was, but that the home run was due as much to luck as to skill. The reporters he said always highly colored their accounts of a game, and the fans and rooters made much out of small things—"multum in parvo".

"All Tom, you are too modest—I'm going to tell you Tom and you must call me Charley, as everybody does—for we are not old enough yet to be mistered, much."

"Very well, Charley," with emphasis on the last word, at which all laughed but Tom, and he smiled. "I don't like to have a brand," he said, "if one does anything that is commendable it is well known and he will get all the credit he deserves."

The conversation changed to general topics of the times and in these Mr. Benton took the leading part, to draw Tom out, and ascertain what his opinions were and how much he knew. He found Tom well informed—very much better than his own son—and with decided convictions and the ability to maintain them. He also had the same political faith as Mr. Benton, all of which greatly pleased the magnate of the village.

"I would like to ask Mr. Hadley a question, if I may," said Mrs. Benton. "It is this—do you like music, Mr. Hadley, and can you sing?"

"Yes, Miss Benton," he replied, "I like music very much and can sing some, though not very well. I fear, and I can play, as an amateur on almost any kind of an instrument, but I like a guitar best."

"That is fine," she said, "I have a guitar, but haven't learned to play on it very well, yet." As the company arose from the table, she added: "What cannot we have some music now, sir?"

"I think Miss Benton, with your father's sanction that Charley and I have a little matter to attend to down at the railroad station, and when we get back if its agreeable we can have a little singing."

Mr. Benton understood what Tom's purpose was, and stated that it was a capital idea and told Charley to get his runabout and take Tom there. As the young men went away together, Mrs. Benton said to her daughter: "What a nice manly young chap that is, Mand. He and Charley seem to like each other very much. He has a stronger mind than Charley. I can see that, and will keep him from going wrong. He seems already like one of my own children. Providence, I verily believe, has sent him to us."

You are the best mother in the world," replied the daughter, "but you cannot mother everyone who comes along. He is only here for a few hours, and will then go away, and we may never see him again."

"We must not let him go away. A situation must be found for him, here in Alderburg. I shall speak to your father about it."

"He seems to have a mind of his own, mother, but what is this matter tonight about that is so important to father, and he a perfect stranger? I don't understand it."

"Hush, don't talk so loud, Mand, Annie may hear. On the young man's hike here, while resting near a spring in some bushes near the wayside he heard some tramps planning to break into your father's clothing store tonight, so he stopped to tell him about it. Jarvis thinks its necessary for him to stay and see the affair through. He is somewhat suspicious, however, that the story may turn out to be a fake, but I don't believe it. The young man could have no real object in making up such a story that he can see, if it wasn't true."

"And I think as you do, mother. Anyone who knows anything of character, can see that he is honest, smart and manly, but what have the boys gone down to the station for?"

"To ascertain, I suppose, if the tramps have been seen there. The boys will be back pretty soon and we shall hear all about it."

Here they were interrupted by the servant girl, who told them that she had been up to Tom's room and found everything neat and in order—and much more so than Charley's. "And what do you think I saw in his suit case?" she asked. "You didn't spy into that, did you?" indignantly inquired Miss Benton.

"It was unlocked and open and I looked into it. I don't see any harm in that," Annie sullenly replied.

"Well, I do," retorted the young lady. "You had no right to meddle with any of his things. He went away in a hurry with Charley and probably didn't think it was necessary to put his effects under lock and key. I should be greatly chagrined to have him think any of us meddled with his things, shouldn't you, mother?"

"Yes indeed, I should. He appears to be a very fine young man, and I wouldn't have him get such an idea about us for anything."

"Well I thought you would be curious to know that among his things was a small Bible and a photograph of a young girl—a perfect beauty—there now," she snapped as she left the room.

"What do you think of that, Mand? He doesn't seem to be very religiously inclined, but he is undoubtedly a moral and good young man. I'm sure my estimate of his character is correct. Don't you think so?"

"Yes I do, mother, but I think that the mother put the Bible into his suitcase to remind him of her good instructions. Everything seems to indicate that he intends to obtain a situation and not go back home right away. I don't believe from his appearance that he is a religious crank, who is so tiresome as some of that stamp are. I shouldn't like him at all if he was."

"There must be a strong tie between him and his mother and sister. He said I was like his mother and I tell you, Mand, he is a treasure."

"Perhaps so, mother, but are you sure the photograph of the girl is that of his sister and not his sweetheart?"

"No, Mand, I am not of course. I hadn't thought of that. He may drop a word that will give us the information, but I'm going to believe it's his sister's photograph, for if he has a sweetheart, and that one is her picture, it evidently would have been older looking than the one, Annie saw from her description. I am very curious, but not so much so as to take her way of finding out about it, or asking him any questions."

"Nor I either, mother. If we don't find out in some other way, then we will never know," she firmly declared. (To be continued)

BOLSTERS MILLS

Camp Opened—Allards Moved—Children's Day Observances.

Lawrence Wight's family have opened up their summer camp. The boys will come about the first of July.

Roger Alden, wife and baby have moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

SOUTH OTISFIELD

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

Wyman Lord is home from Bates College. Ruth and Rita Skilling are home from North Bridgton and visited by a young lady schoolmate.

The Circle met with Mrs. Summer Skilling last Thursday. Children's Day was observed in church, Sunday, and will be observed in Grange Saturday, the 21st.

Walter Jordan and family from North Raymond spent Sunday with Howard Ames and family.

Some of the boarders have arrived at Camp Fowles. The family were moved into the late Orin Hancock house. The schools closed last week.

Miss Goldie Edwards has been on a visit to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Edwards; she has just graduated from high school in Casco.

HARRISON

Schools Closed—Starts Moved—Attended Graduation Exercises.

Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Young and three children left Sunday for Caribou, where they will visit relatives and attend the state conference.

On Thursday the Union Conference of Congregational churches was held at Waterford. Those who attended from Harrison were Rev. Andrew Young, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Blake, Mrs. Marshall H. Pitts and Mrs. Anna Dudley. Mr. Young was one of the speakers. On Saturday Mr. Young spoke at the Sunday school convention held at Naples. There will be no service at Calvary Community church next Sunday.

The village schools closed on Friday. The primary school with Mrs. Donald Whitney, teacher, enjoyed a picnic at Crystal Lake. The intermediate and grammar schools were held ice cream socials, which the teachers, Miss Eva J. Jones and Miss Beatrice Wyman. At the Parent-Teachers' meeting held on Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Samuel L. Pitts. Vice President—Raymond Burdell. Secretary—Miss Margaret Burdell. Treasurer—Miss Margaret Burdell.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Donald Whitney entertained Miss Eva J. Jones and Beatrice Wyman and the music teacher, Mrs. Clifford D. Denison at her new home on Crystal Lake at a supper party. A delightful evening was spent. On Thursday afternoon an outdoor program was given on the lawn of the Calvary community church, in which all of the schools participated.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer O. Stuart and family have moved to Bridgton the past week. Genie Burnham returned to her duties at the Maine Tel. & Tel. office after enjoying a weeks recess.

The Harrison grammar school won a great victory on Saturday over a Bridgton high school team at baseball.

Mrs. Walter W. Hapgood has opened her tea room, "Bottle" on Waterford Road and is doing a good business.

Postmaster P. P. Freeman is enjoying two weeks from the office. Mr. Freeman has built a cement wall at his home on Hillside Avenue.

Mrs. Bidon, who is ill at her daughter's, Mrs. Annah Whitney's on Main street, remains about the same. She has been confined to her bed for the past ten weeks or more.

Harry Winslow from the Seavey Farm was a recent guest of his friend, Sherman Fleck.

Hugh Walton of Portland, Oregon, a pupil of Professor F. E. Bristol, is stopping at C. D. Tarbox's on Main street.

Mrs. Ethel Jagersoll, who has been working at P. C. Green's several weeks, is now at Mrs. Annie Purcell's on Winslow street. Mrs. Purcell is slowly improving from her recent illness.

Lida Harmon Carley attended commencement at the University of Maine last week, when her cousin, Milton Kent, of Woodland, was one of the honor graduates and received the famous watch given each year to the student with the highest standing. Mr. Kent is the son of Mrs. Etta (Harmon) Kent, formerly of this town.

Ruby E. Pitts spent the week end in Bolsters Mills with her sister, Mrs. Howard Grover.

Miss Martha E. Caswell, a successful teacher in Milder, Mass., spent the week end at her home, here. She returned Tuesday to her school and will complete her teaching next week and return to Hanzon and spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis H. Caswell. Mr. Caswell has a new Slidebaker Eight.

William Pitts is assisting at the Bridgton telephone office as operator during the summer season. Mrs. Elsie Spaulding has returned to her duties at the Harrison office of the Main Tel. & Tel. Co. She is still using crutches, though her foot is gaining and is in a cast.

On Tuesday, Mrs. J. Jones and Beatrice Wyman and the music teacher, Mrs. Clifford D. Denison at her new home on Crystal Lake at a supper party. A delightful evening was spent. On Thursday afternoon an outdoor program was given on the lawn of the Calvary community church, in which all of the schools participated.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer O. Stuart and family have moved to Bridgton the past week. Genie Burnham returned to her duties at the Maine Tel. & Tel. office after enjoying a weeks recess.

The Harrison grammar school won a great victory on Saturday over a Bridgton high school team at baseball.

Mrs. Walter W. Hapgood has opened her tea room, "Bottle" on Waterford Road and is doing a good business.

Postmaster P. P. Freeman is enjoying two weeks from the office. Mr. Freeman has built a cement wall at his home on Hillside Avenue.

Mrs. Bidon, who is ill at her daughter's, Mrs. Annah Whitney's on Main street, remains about the same. She has been confined to her bed for the past ten weeks or more.

Harry Winslow from the Seavey Farm was a recent guest of his friend, Sherman Fleck.

Hugh Walton of Portland, Oregon, a pupil of Professor F. E. Bristol, is stopping at C. D. Tarbox's on Main street.

Mrs. Ethel Jagersoll, who has been working at P. C. Green's several weeks, is now at Mrs. Annie Purcell's on Winslow street. Mrs. Purcell is slowly improving from her recent illness.

Lida Harmon Carley attended commencement at the University of Maine last week, when her cousin, Milton Kent, of Woodland, was one of the honor graduates and received the famous watch given each year to the student with the highest standing. Mr. Kent is the son of Mrs. Etta (Harmon) Kent, formerly of this town.

Ruby E. Pitts spent the week end in Bolsters Mills with her sister, Mrs. Howard Grover.

Miss Martha E. Caswell, a successful teacher in Milder, Mass., spent the week end at her home, here. She returned Tuesday to her school and will complete her teaching next week and return to Hanzon and spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis H. Caswell. Mr. Caswell has a new Slidebaker Eight.

William Pitts is assisting at the Bridgton telephone office as operator during the summer season. Mrs. Elsie Spaulding has returned to her duties at the Harrison office of the Main Tel. & Tel. Co. She is still using crutches, though her foot is gaining and is in a cast.

On Tuesday, Mrs. J. Jones and Beatrice Wyman and the music teacher, Mrs. Clifford D. Denison at her new home on Crystal Lake at a supper party. A delightful evening was spent. On Thursday afternoon an outdoor program was given on the lawn of the Calvary community church, in which all of the schools participated.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer O.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Children's Day Observed—Guests at Mrs. Berry's—Picnic Enjoyed.

This is vacation time and many are making use of these days at camp or away visiting.

Mrs. Phila Mayhew and Mrs. Kate Whitman went to camp on the shore of Lake Umbagog. Mrs. Mayhew is accompanied by her son, John, and Mrs. Whitman by her daughter, Mrs. George. They have gone to camp on the shore of Lake Umbagog.

Rosanna Verge returned from a week's visit to friends in Berlin with her sister, Thelma Verge, from her school in Vermont. They have gone to New London, Conn., to visit their sister, Virginia Verge, for two weeks, when they will return to Old Orchard beach for the summer.

Mrs. F. H. Hill and Mrs. Herbert Hill and daughter, Charlotte and Myrtle Emery are spending two weeks at their camp at Locke Mills. They entertained Mrs. Laura Plavin and children, Mrs. Martha Day and others, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Welton of Watcom sang at the Children's Day exercises at the Universalist church, June 8. Three babies were christened.

Mrs. Fannie Crowell of Massachusetts is boarding at Mackie's.

Mrs. Evelyn Mason of Gorham, N. H., is visiting with Mrs. H. Penner of Portland.

Children's Day was observed at the United Parish church last Sunday evening with a program entitled "Church Builders," which consisted of three scenes, the first representing the building period, the second the church school period and the third the activities of service and was illustrated with stones placed one on another as the scenes progressed, with "cornerstones" the first and the last or tenth stone, "Missions," music by the choir and remarks by pastor accompanied it, making a pretty program notwithstanding the absence of a number of the children and the hottest day of the season.

Quincy B. Davis and brother, Verne Davis, accompanied by his daughter, Gertrude Nadig and granddaughter, Genevieve Nadig of Erol, N. H., visited Mrs. Nadig's cousin, Mrs. Lora Berry and the place where his uncle, the late Humbert G. Brown, used to live.

Miss Ella May Curtis has gone to Portland to Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Bowker's to make a visit and needed change. She has been in poor health for the past few months.

Mrs. H. H. Wardwell has been visiting her daughter and family at Groveton, N. H. All have returned here for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Penner of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Griffin of New Haven, Conn., visited at Mrs. Clara Bidlon's last Sunday.

The Helping Hands Class, the ladies' Bible Class of the United Parish church, enjoyed a picnic at Mrs. John Ross' at North Paris last week, Thursday, the home of the president of the class. Fifteen were present and six children.

The D. of U. Y. had an enjoyable regular meeting, Monday evening at the hall. Flag Day program was put on.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Rose Cole of South Paris, Mrs. Elizabeth Heath and Mrs. Mabel West Paris were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dean.

Gerry Emery of West Paris is spending several days with Stanley Andrews.

Mrs. Ina Powers, Mrs. Edwin Perham and children were visitors at Orlan York's in Greenwood, Friday.

Mrs. Gene Swan is stopping with her sister, Mrs. Frank Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stark of Long Island, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Sybil Lege, son and daughter, of Portland, were callers of Mrs. Edwin Perham, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis and children of Guilford, Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Titus and family of South Paris were visitors of Mrs. Andrews, Sunday.

Beattie Wilson is building an addition onto the building he bought of Kenneth Benson, for a kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Andrews, Mrs. Mary Stevens and Miss Stevens spent several days in Portland, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Dunn and daughter of Cumberland Center, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Howe and children of Bryant Pond were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Davis.

Lionel Ritchie spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Caroline Ritchie.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

Class Meeting at Mrs. Abbott's—Visitors in Town.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coffin and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barrett motored to Oxford and Paris Hill, Sunday.

Lumpi Korhonen of Lewiston called on her classmate, Mrs. Joseph Barrett, recently.

The Sunday school spent a very pleasant evening, Friday, at a class meeting held at the home of Mrs. George Abbott. Arnold Coffin, who is working at Turner, called on his parents here, Sunday.

Mrs. John Howe of North Rumford has been visiting her brother, George Abbott, and family, for a few days.

Everett Cole was home from Farmington over the week end.

Alma Knight is visiting her grandmother at Strong.

Mrs. D. C. Foster and children of East Bethel were visitors at George Abbott's, Sunday.

Miss Thursa Brown of Bethel spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Georgia Whitman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weeks of Frye were recent visitors at Mose Hardy's.

GREENWOOD—ROWE HILL

Colby Ring and family went on an auto trip through Hebron and Minot, Sunday. Mrs. Ring's sister, Mrs. McCollister, went with them and called on relatives.

Elton Dunham attended Charles McGinnis' funeral at West Bethel, Sunday. Guests at Newton Bryant's, Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ring and children, of Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. Deward Lang and son, Merle, Bryant Pond.

Marguerite and Lillian Ring of Sumner are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Bryant, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Delphon Howe, Gorham, N. H., and Mrs. Fannie Howe and daughter, Margaret, Bryant Pond, were at Mr. Howe's place, Sunday.

W. M. Emery's family of West Paris are at their camp at Indian Pond.

Ernest Brooks was in this vicinity from Gorham, N. H., Tuesday, taking orders for shoes.

Miss Ruby Day of Locke's Mills is visiting Miss Hope Ring a few days this week.

Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Hobbs went home to Gorham, N. H., last Sunday, expecting to return this week and remain until the camp closes, in September.

Linwood Ring was here from Sumner, Sunday. He is working for Tebbets Company at their mill there.

MASON

Guests at Eli Grover's, Sunday, the 15th, were A. M. Gray, Ivan Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Edith Gray and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Steison and daughter, Mrs. Roy Blake and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Merrill and baby.

F. W. Bartlett returned home, Sunday, from the Rumford Hospital, where he has been for treatment.

Miss Alice MacKenzie is at work for Mrs. A. E. Herrick of Bethel.

Mrs. A. E. Crover and sons, Walter and Howard, attended the graduation exercises at Bethel, Thursday afternoon.

BETHEL

Mrs. Wilbert Baker

The community was saddened to hear of the passing of Mrs. Wilbert Baker at the Maine General Hospital in Portland, Saturday afternoon at 3:15, June 14th. She entered the hospital April 29th for observation and submitted to serious surgery May 20th. She was on the operating list for nearly three weeks and then seemed to be on the road to recovery and had been able to sit up a little. Friday, she suffered a rupture and died. Her death was sudden and unexpected. Mrs. Baker, who was in Portland until June 1st, when he returned home, went to Portland Friday afternoon and was with her when she passed away.

Helen Burgess Baker was born in Strickland, Me., Sept. 16, 1888, the daughter of Alonzo and Rita Sawtelle Burgess. After coming to Bethel, she met and married Wilbert Baker of Albany on June 10, 1903. The first three years of their wedded life was spent on his mother's farm in Albany. They then moved to Bethel where they have since resided. Having no children of their own, they adopted a baby girl who has been reared to girlhood with parental care.

Mrs. Baker is survived by one brother, Arza Burgess of Worcester, Mass., niece, nephews, cousins and her husband and daughter, June. A host of friends will miss her pleasant presence. She was a member of the Brown W. R. C. No. 36, of which she was a past president, and of Nacomi Temple No. 68, Pythian Sisters, of which she was a past M. E. G. and of the Bethel Epworth League. She was a good friend and neighbor and an attendant of the Congregational Church, a loving sister, wife and mother. She had been in poor health for a long time and had had operations for various causes. The last one being the sixth and most serious of all. Of a quiet, retiring nature, she seldom complained of her ill health, although it must have been at times a severe trial.

The funeral services were held at the Congregational Church, Tuesday, June 17, at 2 p. m., conducted by S. S. Greenleaf in a most efficient manner. Words of comfort were spoken by the pastor, Rev. L. A. Edwards, to the sorrowing family and friends. The orders with which she was affiliated attended a body, she was laid to rest in the little cemetery near the foot of Songo Pond in Albany, amid a profusion of flowers. The bearers were Fred Wheeler, Charles Merrill, Leroy Andrews and Ed. Bennett.

Roland Annis and family have moved to his farm on the Middle Intervale road. Mrs. L. Luxton of West Bethel was a Saturday caller at her daughter's, Mrs. Frank Hunt's.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Allen and children attended the ball game at Lovell, recently.

Miss Chapin and family entertained his niece and husband from Minneapolis over the week end.

Mrs. Wallace Coolidge and daughter, Barbara, were callers of Mrs. E. C. Gorham, N. H., last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Hazel Luxton has completed her duties at Archie Young's and gone to her home in West Bethel.

BETHEL—SONGO ROAD

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Merrill and daughter, Mrs. Blanche Merrill were in Bridgton, Friday evening, to see the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Merrill, who arrived at their home, June 13th. Mrs. Merrill stayed with them for a visit.

Ara Burgess of Worcester, Mass., was called here by the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. Wilbert Baker. Mrs. Burgess and the children arrived Tuesday and will stay with Mr. Baker and daughter, June, for a few weeks.

Bethel Wheeler was a recent guest of her schoolmate, Dorothy Parsons, at the Haggood farm.

E. Merrill and family were in Upton, Sunday.

Mrs. Gertrude Haggood, Laurence, Hildred and Phyllis Bartlett called on Estella Bean and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bean of Albany, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Savin were Sunday guests of relatives in Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Gough were in Gorham to attend the graduation of their daughter, Maxine, from Gorham Normal School, Tuesday.

Relatives out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. Wilbert Baker, Tuesday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Arza Burgess and children of Worcester, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Edson Cummings, their son and his wife, of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rollins and daughter, of Naples.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Inman and Mrs. Eva Morrill attended the funeral of an old neighbor, Parker Flint, at the church at Hunt's Corner, Albany, Sunday.

BETHEL—GROVER HILL

Alfred Peaslee did some planting for Frank Bartlett, recently.

Mrs. Lillian V. Whitman and daughter, Dorothy, from Medford, Mass., motored to Bethel, June 12, called on friends, returning Friday forenoon, accompanied by Evelyn and Winfield Whitman, who are their guests for a week.

Maurice F. Tyler has some young cattle in A. J. Peaslee's pasture for the summer.

The Hutchinson Bros. from Bethel, recently planted a garden at their Grover Hill farm.

F. C. Bartlett from Bethel has a garden planted on his meadow land near Cobble Stone Farm.

Erwin Hutchinson and Cleve Waterhouse have employment on the state road being built this season.

The Hutchinson Bros. from Bethel, recently planted a garden at their Grover Hill farm.

Erwin Hutchinson and Cleve Waterhouse have employment on the state road being built this season.

WILSON'S MILLS

Guests at Bryant's—Attended Convention at Toronto—Guest at Bessie Camps Injured.

School closed June 15th with a picnic on the hotel grounds. A picnic was enjoyed and sandwiches, lemonade, ice cream and cake were served.

Miss Mildred Allen has returned to Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Yeaton and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Foss Gray were guests at William Bryant's over the week end. Miss Verna Yeaton, who has taught here for the past two years, returned home with them.

Lewis Lavitt, O. C. Linnell, Edwin Storey, E. S. Bennett and Ivan Arno attended the Shrine Convention at Toronto, last week. They made the trip in Mr. Arno's car, going by way of Montreal, spending three days in Toronto and returning by the Great Lakes, Niagara Falls and New York state. They all report a wonderful trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ripley and family and Percy and Harold Ripley of Portland, N. H., spent the week end at their camp in Margalloway.

Mrs. Robert Parker of Philadelphia a guest at Bessie Camps, met with a severe accident, Saturday afternoon, while fishing at Little Boy's Falls. She slipped from a rock and fell striking her back. The guide carried her to the boat which was met at Anisconas Dam by an ambulance from Bethel.

Miss Catherine Cameron was at home from South Paris last week. She was accompanied by Miss Lucinda Ripley.

BRYANT POND

Miss Alice Felt is working for Mrs. Arthur Ricker.

Mont and Sherlock Truman spent Sunday at their home in Norway.

Miss Charlotte Heldman and little son of Auburn and Miss Lydia Cummings of Norway are visiting her sister, Mrs. Ellen Verge.

Mrs. Emma Gorman is sick and Mrs. Ellen Libby is staying with her.

Rev. Thomas Bates of Yarmouth preached here last Sunday and his mother will come to the parishage to live.

The Ladies' Aid will have a food sale, Friday afternoon.

Miss Isabel England from New York is visiting her mother, Mrs. Elmeda England.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ricker went to Farmington, June 17th, to the graduation of their niece, Miss Liza Briggs, from Farmington Normal School.

Mr. and Mrs. Delphon Howe of Gorham, N. H., visited his mother, Mrs. John Howe, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cole returned from their trip, Sunday night. They have been attending the Postmasters' Convention at Portland and visited other places.

Harry L. Page of Andover has been visiting in town this week. He will leave Thursday for Prosser Lake to work. He has worked there several seasons.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis and daughter, Lois, of North Conway, N. H., were week end visitors of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stowell went to Andover, Friday night to the annual ball. Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown and members of the I. O. O. F. attended the funeral of Charles McInnis at West Bethel, last Sunday. Mr. McInnis lived here several years and was much liked.

George Mason is critically ill at the home of his daughter in Norway. His sons, Charles and Oren Mason, of this town, and sister, Mrs. Ada Abbott, have been with him, also the other children from away and sister of Bethel.

SOUTH RUMFORD

The comedy, "Look Out for Paint," given by members of the Community Club was presented at Byron Grange Hall, Tuesday evening of last week with good success. A dance with music by local talent followed the play.

The Farm Bureau meeting for June was held with Mrs. Eunice Putnam and Mrs. Rosa Putnam, Thursday, June 12, with seven members and their families present. Time saving dish washing, was the subject in charge of Mrs. Effie Ridley, H. D. A. The dinner was a square meal of salads, graham rolls and strawberry shortcake and was served by Mrs. Marge Lane, Mrs. Bessie Holt and Mrs. Lila Cameron.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Community Club was held in the new club house, Thursday evening of last week. Although the house is not finished yet, it can be used as it is boarded and shingled and windows in.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wyman called on John Parker at Canton Point, Sunday. Mr. Parker will be remembered by the older people as a very successful school teacher in the South Rumford and Rumford Center schools about forty-five years ago.

Mrs. Mabel Hubbard came from St. Petersburg, Fla., with friends by auto last week and with her daughter, Miss Alma Hubbard, are living at their home through the summer.

ALBANY—HUNT'S CORNER

Parker Flint, who has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Amos McKee, North Lovell, passed away Friday morning. The funeral was held Sunday, June 15th, from the church here.

Next Sunday, June 22, 10 a. m., eastern standard time, Henry Merrill and his family will be remembered by the older people as a very successful school teacher in the South Rumford and Rumford Center schools about forty-five years ago.

Mrs. Mabel Hubbard came from St. Petersburg, Fla., with friends by auto last week and with her daughter, Miss Alma Hubbard, are living at their home through the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Record and Henry Bridgman have been at Southport for a few days.

Mrs. H. L. A. Ricker and Mr. and Mrs. Wash Heald were in Lewiston Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Pomeroy spent Thursday afternoon with Miss Eleanor Heald.

Mrs. Hazel Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Ricker spent Saturday evening at the "Foster and Ricker" cottage, at Barn Pond, Sunday.

Caldwell Buck of Kansas City is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. A. T. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Russell were guests of Mrs. Millie Bisbee, at Rangely Lakes over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Purkis were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Irish at the Irish cottage at Bear Pond over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prince of Madison called on Mr. Prince's mother, Mrs. Eunice Prince, Sunday.

NORTH NEWRY

Announcements have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Morton A. Warren of Buckfield of the marriage of their daughter, Clithroe, teacher in the commercial department of Biddeford high school, to Leola W. Pearson of Portland, former submaster in the same school.

The marriage took place in St. Paul Episcopal church, Portland, May 29. Both the bride and groom have a host of friends in this vicinity.

SUMNER—SUMNER HILL

Adams Moved—Observed Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Adams have vacated the telephone office at West Sumner, and Mrs. Nina Brigham of Buckfield has taken their place. Mr. and Mrs. Adams have moved into a place they have purchased in the village.

Miss Frances Barrett is visiting in Berlin, N. H.

Mrs. Martha Barrett and son, Carl Barrett, of Portland, called on Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Barrett, last Sunday.

A number of members of Wm. A. Barrows Relief Corps of West Sumner attended the Department Convention at Portland.

F. M. Chandler and H. L. Bisbee are peeling pulp for L. H. Bisbee.

Buckfield's baseball nine recently defeated the "Sumner" and the Sumners defeated a team from Peru, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tucker and family of Buckfield visited Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bartlett family, last Sunday.

Howard Parlin and Miss Elsie Emery of Portland called on their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Parlin, Sunday.

Mrs. Nellie Barrett recently entertained relatives from Berlin, N. H.

Mrs. Edith Newell and son, Stanley, spent Thursday, the 12th, with Mrs. V. G. Cushman, at South Paris.

Mrs. Minnie Barrett and Mrs. Edith Newell were in Rumford, recently, to see their sister and aunt, Mrs. Eudora Ames, who is in the hospital.

BUCKFIELD

Mrs. Crockett Returned Home—Cleaning Bee Held—Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cooper and four children were in Rumford, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Sturtevant of Shrewsbury, Mass., were at Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ricker's from Friday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Bessey and son visited their relatives in Webster, Sunday.

Mrs. Percy Jones and son, Billy, spent Thursday with Mrs. Correy Bonney.

Mrs. August Crockett has returned from South Paris, where she passed the winter with her daughter, Mrs. George Haskell.

Mrs. M. S. Cooper has gone to her home in West Buckfield, after being with Mrs. Leon Purkis for seven weeks.

Miss Mildred Pearson is visiting Mrs. Eric Erickson for a few days.

Miss Doris Tucker is working for her aunt, Mrs. Leon Purkis.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Marston of Auburn were calling on friends here, Sunday.

Miss Agnes Hoxley returned to her home in Portland, Saturday. Miss Hoxley taught in the intermediate school the week end. She plans to go to Massachusetts next year to teach.

Clinton Stevens of Newell and Miss Marion Cobb of Kennebunk spent the week end with Miss Cobb's sister, Mrs. Carroll Hutchinson. Arlene Hutchinson returned with them for a visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cobb.

Mrs. Bessie Buck is ill. Miss Mary Farrar is working for her.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wilson and Mrs. Blanche Garland were in Rockland, Sunday, to see M. P. Garland, who is improving.

The women of the Farm Bureau had a bee on Tuesday and gave the rooms over the Farmers' Union a thorough cleaning.

Word has been received here of the birth of a son, Gordon, to Mr. and Mrs. Marie Davis.

Mrs. Davis has always lived here until going to Auburn about the year ago, where he is manager of a Clevelander store.

Mrs. Lucy Thayer has returned to her home at Mechanic Falls, after caring for Mrs. Ella Buck for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Warren, Miss Sadie Spaulding, Mrs. Louise Ricker and Miss Barbara Ricker were in Lewiston, recently.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Record and Henry Bridgman have been at Southport for a few days.

Mrs. H. L. A. Ricker and Mr. and Mrs. Wash Heald were in Lewiston Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Pomeroy spent Thursday afternoon with Miss Eleanor Heald.

Mrs. Hazel Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Ricker spent Saturday evening at the "Foster and Ricker" cottage, at Barn Pond, Sunday.

Caldwell Buck of Kansas City is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. A. T. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Russell were guests of Mrs. Millie Bisbee, at Rangely Lakes over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Purkis were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Irish at the Irish cottage at Bear Pond over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prince of Madison called on Mr. Prince's mother, Mrs. Eunice Prince, Sunday.

Announcements have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Morton A. Warren of Buckfield of the marriage of their daughter, Clithroe, teacher in the commercial department of Biddeford high school, to Leola W. Pearson of Portland, former submaster in the same school.

The marriage took place in St. Paul Episcopal church, Portland, May 29. Both the bride and groom have a host of friends in this vicinity.

NORTH LOVELL

Mr. and Mrs. Art Grover of Oxford called at A. H. Andrews' one day last week.

Mrs. Milie E. McAllister and son, Glendon, of Bethel, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McAllister.

Leland Wilson sold a valuable horse to John Mayberry of Bridgton Ridge, recently.

Miss Hester McKee is working in the store for W. P. Harriman.

Mrs. Leland Wilson and children and Mrs. H. H. A. Ricker and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bartlett of Fryburg, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hill are at their summer home for the season.

First National Stores

Norway Milk and Cream from the Lone Pine Farm, Norway. Fresh daily, guaranteed.

CLIFFORD H. DAVIS, Mgr.

Another Drop In

GOODYEAR TIRES

of 5 per cent. making them the lowest priced ever.

We will make you a liberal allowance for your used tires toward new ones.

More people ride on Goodyear Tires than any other kind.

O. K. Clifford Co.

Park Street, South Paris

LARGE BERYL FOUND

The finest specimen of green beryl at the Bumpus quarry at Albany has been discovered. This beryl, found beneath one of the others of good quality, is the largest in the world and valued at several thousand dollars.

The newly found crystal is six feet in diameter and so far 16 feet if it have been uncovered, with approximately four feet more to be excavated. Many scientists visited the quarry last summer, to view the huge beryl crystals, but that recently found is much larger than any of the others.

NARROW GAUGE WRECK

The locomotive and one car on the narrow gauge railway left the rails and tipped over, Thursday afternoon, June 12, when the train was a short distance out of Bridgton. Officials laid the mishap to the spreading of the rails, caused by recent excessive rainfall. The engineer and fireman jumped from the cab window and were unhurt. Several passengers who were in the car which tipped over, escaped with minor bruises.

NEWRY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Powers were in Bridgton last Friday, on business. Their grandson accompanied them and had some work done at the dentist's.

Clarence Judkins, Jamison Bond and Mena Dombach were Sunday callers at W. N. Powers. Mr. Bond and family arrived here June 19th, for the summer.

ECZEMA CURED

Free samples of remedies for all skin and scalp diseases which are CURING after all other methods have failed. Wonderful testimonials sent on request.

MOORE MFG. CO.

SPRINGFIELD, VERMONT

Daylight Saving Time

REX Theatre

NORWAY Matinee, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday

MONDAY, JUNE 23

Marilyn Miller

in "Sally"

TUESDAY

Alice White

Jack Mulhall

in "Show Girl of Hollywood"

WEDNESDAY

Charles Farrell

Mary Duncan

in "City Girl"

THURSDAY

"Paramount on Parade"

with Richard Arlen

Clara Bow

FRIDAY

"Footlights and Fools"

with Colleen Moore

SATURDAY

Charles Murray

Geo. Sidney

in "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland"

News, Comedies, Cartoons